Own Your Home

A campaign that is worthy of support, and one that is hoped will prove largely successful and be persisted in from year to year, is now in progress in quite a number of cities and is finding prominence in the news and advertising columns of the daily press. It is a campaign of publicity to educate people as to the wisdom of taking steps to acquire a home of their own instead of regarding "renters" all their lives.

While such a campaign can probably be carried on more spectacularly and effectively in the larger centers of population, it is one that might well be extended to towns, villages and hamlets, and, what is of even greater importance, to the strictly rural communities.

Nothing is quite so well calculated to give stability to a nation as to have its citizens, to as great an extent as possible, the actual owners of the dwellings in which they reside. When a man or woman has a stake in his or her country, province, and local community in the form of a piece of land owned by them and upon which they have established their home, certain very desirable results follow.

In the first place, such persons are far less likely to be influenced by demagogic appeals of agitators desirous to undermine the stability of the state and shake public confidence in national institutions. The person with a fixed stake and interest in the country will give second thought before embarking on a rash enterprise, whereas people having no such interest in the country are more easily led astray by the professional trouble maker.

Ownership of a home constitutes a powerful factor leading to permanence of population. It is the man having no real interest in a community, as evidenced by lack of his own home, who is here today and gone tomorrow. It is the renters of the world who are forever on the move and who because of a lack of a stake in a given community will likely keep on moving and never attain anything.

People living in rental premises are paying the landlord's taxes for him, a good rate of interest on his investment, thus yielding him a profit and in the long run actually paying for the property. The amount thus paid out annually in rental would in the course of years pay the purchase price and the present short-sighted renter have an asset to show for his money.

The family living in a rented house inevitably take less care of the property than would be the case if it was their own. They do not exert themselves to anything like the extent an owner would to improve and beautify the property, with the result that communities where renters predominate do not present the same prospective, as a whole appearance which marks a community of home owners. The incentive to steadily add to the value of the property is lacking; on the contrary, the opposite effect is too frequently noted because improvement of the property by the renter may easily result in a demand from the landlord for a higher rent.

What is true in the case of the resident of a city or town is equally true of the renter farmer as contrasted with the farmer-owner. It is the renter who strives to get all he can out of the soil during the usually brief period of his sojourn on the land. He is not concerned about the future, with the result that the land and buildings deteriorate and the community, province and country suffer loss.

It is gratifying to learn, therefore, from statistics recently compiled that no other country in the world shows such a high proportion of home owners in the larger cities as does the Dominion of Canada, and in this respect the cities of Western Canada are ahead of those in the Eastern Provinces. It is probably true, too, although figures are not available, that in respect to ownership of land by farmers who are tilling the soil Canada occupies a higher place than other countries. The majority of farmers in Canada are owners, not renters, but there appears to be a tendency in this country—and to an even more alarming degree in the United States—for renters to increase in number. Great Britain has realized the mistake of having huge tracts of land owned by the few and the great majority of agriculturists reduced to renters. Now the great English farmers are being broken up, and many farmers are thus being enabled to secure land of their own.

Here in Canada the stability of the state, the security of permanence of population, the improvement and permanent development of property, and the maintenance of a high standard of living all call for the giving of every possible encouragement to people to become the owners of homes as well as for the state, "Own Your Home" should be the ambition of every Canadian.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to enrich the blood and strengthen the system. It is the wisdom of these pills, and thousands have found them beneficial after disease had left them weak and run down. Among those who have proved the value of these pills in cases of this kind is Mr. Charles A. Turner, light-keeper, Tarnap Cap light station, N.S., who says: "In Jan. 1917, I took a severe cold which I neglected until it developed into pneumonia. It continued me to bed for some weeks. When I was able to get up and around the house, I found that I was very weak and my strength was gone. I felt it seemed to be growing weaker and was reduced almost to a skeleton. I took an emulsion, but it did not help me. Then one day a friend who told me to see Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took them and after six boxes were gone and they were helping me. By the time the last box was gone, I was doing my work again and feeling fine, and I had gained in weight. My health is since continued good, and I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail for 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Millions Ready for U.S. Interest
 Britain Prepared to Meet Payment Due in Autumn

The Government has completed arrangements to pay, during the coming autumn, interest amounting to $125,000,000 on the British debt to the United States. It has not yet been decided whether a special mission will be sent to Washington to discuss the debt with the U.S. Government.

It is stated in British quarters that the feeling in the United States is believed to favor the suggestions for the funding of the allied debts being undertaken with Great Britain first, the being the principal debtor. A model thus would be applied for subsequent negotiations with other countries.

Trains Get You Going, Coming and Stopping

Railroad crossings are places where automobile drivers turn around and visit with the people on the back seat. They frequently become good neighbors in this process. Sometimes it is hard to distinguish one from another after the train has gone by. The driver is always easy to pick out. It is the one with his face turned away from the railroad track. Many people are of the opinion that the highway crosses the railroad tracks. That is not so. The railroad track always crosses the highway. Some railroad tracks run four abreast. Their percentage of hits is higher than the single-track variety. It is only these three ways—going, coming and standing still.

Aviator Establishes Endurance Record
 Flew from London to Paris Twice in One Day

Captain E. C. Brown, who is piloting one of the new B.H.34 "expresses" on the London Paris airway, succeeded in establishing a new endurance record in commercial aviation. Leaving the London air station at Crofton for Paris at 6:55 a.m., Captain Brown flew to Paris in 122 minutes. After an hour's rest he flew back to Crofton, arriving there at 11:54. Stating a hasty meal, he was in the air again—still in the same machine—at 12:45 p.m., and alighted at Paris at 2:58 p.m. Spending only 32 minutes on the ground at Paris, he returned to Crofton at 3:49 p.m.

Within 11 hours Captain Brown piloted the same aeroplane 1,000 miles, his "flying time" being 8 hours 22 minutes. It is the first time that one pilot has flown to Paris and back twice in the same day.

The previous best performance was that of Captain Thompson, who, on the day of the French Grand Prix in 1920, flew from London to Paris in the morning, back to London again at luncheon, and then back to Paris once more before dusk.

The Canadian Press all Endorse and Agree With The Following: TWELVE SOUND REASONS FOR HOME BUYING

1. Because Loyalty to a Community by its men and women is the first essential to National Patriotism
2. Because the interests of the Home dealer and the Home Consumer are Mutual—what Hurts one must Hurt the other
3. Because the Home Business Man pays the lion's share of Assessment Rates and all public works—whereas the Outside Dealer contributes Nothing and has Absolutely No Interest in Your Community other than the Cash he Takes Out of it
4. Because Prices of Farm and Town Property and Local Markets go down to Zero where there is No Healthy, Progressive Community Trading
5. Because the Fundamental Law of Commonwealth Economy is to Spend where You have Earned It
6. Because your Home Business Man is Entitled to Your Cash. He stands behind the Goods he sells. While you have No Redress from being "stung" by Outside Dealers.
7. Because Spending Your Money Away from Home is like Sowing Grain in a Stranger's Field so that he may Reap the Harvest, instead of You
8. Because when You Drain Your Community by Diverting the Legitimate Channels of Trade, You also Drain it of its young men and young women and of all Energy and substance for Development
9. Because the more Money Circulating in a Community the more valuable Property becomes, the Higher are Wages and the Better the General Conditions that prevail.

"In Unity there is Strength," and United Home Buying Builds Up a Community Bulwark that will Weather the Severe Economic Storms

10. Because it is a Duty You owe to Yourself, in Your Family and to Posterity to Build Up Your Community so that it has a Wholesome Atmosphere and is advancing with the Times, instead of Drifting into the Habits of Sloth, Ruin and Decay

11. Because You must Spend in Advance to the Big City Dealers and You have No Opportunity to Inspect the Goods. Apart from the Hundred and One Good Sound Reasons for Home Buying it never Pays to buy a pig in a bag or "a suit of clothes in the dark"

12. Because continued patronage of the Big City concerns or Catalogue concerns is a Short-sighted, Unprogressive, and in the Long run an Economically Sinful Practice

Building Up a Prosperous Community

Not so long ago the Manufacturers of Canada spent in the neighborhood of a Million Dollars in Publicity that purchased "Buy Made-in-Canada Goods" over the length and breadth of the Dominion

How many Dollars have been spent in the procurement of Buy-In-Your-Own-Community? A mighty few!

Yet the two cases are analogous. Statesmen of all Climes are forever Telling their Peoples that in order to Maintain National Growth and National Prosperity they must Sell more Abroad than They Buy Abroad, to put the matter succinctly

With a Billion Dollar Debt staring Canada in the face today our Financial Experts seek in Every Conceivable manner to Increase Our Exports and at the Same Time Decrease Our Imports A Nation, to Prevent Economic Disaster, must be True to

ITSELF, AND THE SAME RULE APPLIES TO THE COMMUNITY WITH EQUAL FORCE

No Community can Survive an Enormous Commercial Loss unless there is as much or more Trade coming in from outside sources to offset the Loss

How much does any Community get Back from the Thousands of Dollars that are Sent Out each Month to the metropolitan Mail-Order Houses or any other Out of Town concerns? Do such Houses Buy any Farm or other Products produced in the Community? Do they contribute to the Upkeep of any One of the Institutions that are Maintained by the People of the Community?

Do they Help Build rural Roads or Town Streets? Do they Assist in the Building of Our School and Churches?

Do they pay any Business License, Municipal Tax or any Rates whatsoever to throw Back in Ever No Small a Measure Interest on Real Money they Extract from the Community?

Do they in any way Help to Bear the Burden that Falls so extensively upon the Home Business Man?

There is Only One Answer to All these questions:

THEY DO NOT!

These Concerns are Alive in THEIR OWN interests—Solely. They take Our Money and put it Back into their Business in order to extend their Business and thereby extract still more Money from the Pockets of the People of the Community Without any Economic Return Whatsoever.

Do We Stop to consider that Our Market Town, Village or City would be Twice the Place It is were every Person True to His Community?

TABER—Death again invaded the ranks of Taber young manhood when Roger Marshall, member of the Bank of Commerce staff, passed away at the local hospital on Saturday afternoon, about 4 o'clock of typhoid fever. What They Read

The editor of a weekly paper sent out a questionnaire last week to his readers to find out what part of the paper they like best. He learned that 100 per cent of those who answered always read the personals, the editorials, the correspondence and the front page articles, 94 per cent of them read the farm articles, 47 per cent the continued story and 90 per cent the Advertisements.

We expect that this is about the per cent of the case of most papers, although we have an idea that women readers generally are more interested in the continued story than in the editorial page. But what should be the most interesting fact is the large per cent who read the Advertisements, it is not hard to convince the average merchant that people read Ads. yet he is quite certain they spend a lot of time reading them, how can that be? All he has to do to get the public's attention is to tell something as interesting in his Ads as the Mail Order House does in its catalogue.

Summerfallow

Substitutes

The first requisite of a summerfallow substitute is that it produce the same result in preparing the land for grain crops that the fallow does without all its disadvantages. Intertilled crops have a great many of the advantages of the fallow in the preparation of the ground for crop and, while they do not entirely eliminate its disadvantages, yet do so to a large extent.

The number of crops which may be considered intertilled crops have been increased by the plan of sowing small grains and similar crops in double or triple row groups with wide spacing between the groups of rows

Corn is one of the intertilled crops which has proven its value as a summerfallow substitute. It can be successfully grown over a considerable area of the West and experiments carried on over a number of years have proved conclusively that, in districts of fair rainfall, wheat will yield fully as well if not better, after corn than before fallow. Corn also possesses the added advantage that it makes excellent ground for stubble land, particularly if the land has been fall ploughed previous to planting the corn.

Potatoes, also, have proven good summerfallow substitutes though the yield of wheat after them is hardly as good as after corn

Less experimental work has been done with the other crops as yet but some of them at least show decided promise

Sunflowers will give a larger yield of fodder than corn under the same conditions but the results of experiments so far as they have gone would indicate that the moisture requirements of this crop are so great as to tend to lessen the yield of the following grain crop

Roots are not so satisfactory on the ground of the large amount of labour required to handle them and also because they do not yield heavily on stubble ground

Very little data is at present available on the growing of intertilled crops. It has, unquestionably, been established that they will yield sufficiently well to pay but data on the effect on the following crop of grain is not available yet but should be before long with the amount of experimental work being done in this connection. They undoubtedly show decided promise and are worthy of extensive trial

Corn Raising

By P. J. Peterson, Claresholm

Thinking it might be of interest to many who have suffered severe losses from feed shortage these last few years, I thought I should like to give others the benefit of my experience with raising corn

I came west from Manitoba in the fall of 1904, and after seeing one season predicted that some day we would raise corn here also. Being very busy improving a raw place during the first few years, I did not try out my theory but confined my efforts to raising a little table corn each year. In 1914 we had a dry year and a shortage of stock, so as an experiment, I planted half an acre of field corn in the spring of 1915, which grew to a height of from 6 feet to 9 feet 6 inches, but being sown late and an unusual variety, the ears formed but did not ripen. I was then satisfied that if any early varieties were sown it could be ripened successfully

The war now intervened causing a shortage of labor on the farm, and I did nothing more in that line until the spring of 1920, when I purchased a few riding corn cultivator and planted 45 acres. The corn came out considerable damage, but it produced a lot of feed, which convinced me that my investment was justified and encouraged me to try again

On 17th, May, 1921, I finished planting 25 acres of Early Northwestern Dent, and on 1st, June finished planting 20 acres of Early Abundant fodder corn on a piece of land that would have been lying idle, following our usual method of summerfallow. I cultivated this field three times up till 12th, July, and as the weather was very dry more cultivation would have been better. It grew rather stony and both varieties were only about 3 feet in height when the hail struck it on 12th, and 13th, July. I thought the crop was ruined and did not give any attention for ten days when I decided to cultivate it again, as it was recovering very rapidly. I cultivated this field three times lengthwise and twice across. It would have been better to have this done twice more if possible as it helps development. Cultivate deeply when young, then shall lower as it grows larger. You cannot cultivate corn too much.

By 25th, August the Northwestern Dent had reached the roasting ear stage. We finished cutting the field with the corn binder on 12th, September. I estimated there was 75 tons of feed in the cured stage, which would have been much greater if not, green into a silo. I might say I left this feed in the field in large shocks, hauling it in as required. It proved a satisfactory feed for milch cows as well as young stock and horses. I have wintered fifty head of stock on it this winter.
